All through history there have been wars, yet mankind has survived, developed and become civilized in spite of them. But unfortunately, as part of his development, man has learned to tap the hidden forces of our planet and use them for his purpose. Now, if his purposes are those of destruction, each fresh advance in his mastery of nature only increases the danger from war, as men learn to destroy one another in even greater numbers, from even greater distance, and in even more ingenious and varied ways. Man has now discovered how to release the forces locked up in the atom. In consequence, the leading nations of the world are making atom bombs which would now almost be certainly used at a wider level. Nobody knows what the effect of dropping such bombs on a large scale would be, but it is quite possible that the total destruction of the world and its civilization might ensue. As somebody has jokingly remarked, in the next war men will fight with atom bombs, and in the war after that with bows and arrows.
